USE THE NEW BUILDING

Structure In Meadow Avenue And Fourth Street Brought Into Requisition — Has 16 Classrooms And a Modern Gymnasium

The Charleroi schools were opened yesterday for the fall and winter term. All teachers were in their rooms for enrollment of the pupils.

While definite figures cannot be secured at present as to the exact number it is thought that approximately 3,000 reported yesterday morning. More will be enrolled today and for the next few days as yesterday being a holiday a number of the pupils were out of town and did not return in time to attend school the opening day.

One of the largest high school classes in the history of the Charleroi schools will be taught this year. According to Prof. Lively 590 pupils enrolled yesterday with a pohibility of a few more coming in today which will bring the grand total to nearly 600.

The schools were opened yesterday morning, and the students were assigned to the various classes following promotions from last year. They were dismissed at 10:30 o'clock, to enjoy the pleasures incident to Labor day.

The new building located in Meadow avenue and Fourth street is being put to use. This building has sixteen class rooms and a modern gymnasium. Five hundred and twenty-five Seventh and Eighth grade boys and girls will be instructed here by fourteen teachers. Every room is in use except two. This additional building will relieve the congested condition which existed in the grade buildings last year and give adequate accommodations for the increased enrollment this fall.

Experiment Of Young Lady Results In Hurts, Auto Occupants

Miss Grace Lauderbaugh, 17 years old, a student in the Charleroi schools, had driven an automobile a few times, and yesterday, at the noon hour, when the Buick truck, the property of Oliver Jacobs, stood out in front of her home, the young lady, her father, Charles A. Lauderbaugh, 49 years old, Dolly Jacobs, eight years old, and brother, William Jacobs, aged 10 years, got in the machine and started northward in Conrad avenue, near Fifth street, North Charleroi However, something went awry with the steering gear, the machine crashing into a telephone pole and throwing the occupants to the ground. Miss Grace Lauderbaugh and Dolly Jacobs were uninjured, but Mr. Lauderbaugh was knocked unconscious, and was not revived until after medical assistance had been summoned to his home, near the scene of the accident. The machine was not damaged, beyond breaking the windshield. Mr. Lauderbaugh suffered a deep gash in his forehead and is confined to his home from the shock, and the Jacobs boy had his head badly lacerated, but neither is seriously hurt.

The escape of all from serious hurts is miraculous. The collision was heard by practically all the people in the vicinity of Conrad avenue and Fifth street, near which thoroughfare Mr. Lauderbaugh resides, but few of them witnessed the accident.

BELIEVE THE FLYERS WILL TRY NEXT HOP

Washington, Sept. 2.—On the basis of a message sent by the American around-the-world flyers on August 30, the last word received from them, air service officials believed that they probably will attempt the next hop today if the weather is good and necessary repairs to the planes have been completed.

Cartwright Harbor, Labrador, is the next objective of the aviators, but as it is but forty miles from Indian Harbor where they are resting following the ocean jump from Ivigtut, Greenland, it is believed they will push on to Hawkes Bay, Newfoundland, the next scheduled stop, 290 miles beyond Cartwright Harbor.

HERO MEDAL DUE GIRL LIFE SAVER

Through the heroism and presence of mind of Miss Mary Syes, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Syes of 1111 McKean avenue, the life of Miss Sadie Bytheway of McKean avenue, aged 28, was saved yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, while the two were swimming at the North Charleroi beach.

Miss Bytheway evidently ventured out too far in the water, and getting beyond her depth disappeared beneath the surface twice, when she was seen by Mrs. Syes from the shore, whose screams took her plucky daughter to the side of the partially unconscious girl and she brought her to shore. Medical aid was at once administered and the partially drowned girl was revived after a short time and removed to her home.

Miss Syes, who learned to swim this year, has saved two girls from drowning during this season.

FILES ANSWER TO THE LIBEL

Dorothy Black Davis, of Cochran's Mill, Allegheny county, has filed an answer to the libel in divorce filed against her by her husband, Thomas George Davis, of Union township. She denies the allegations of her husband charging her with desertion. On the other hand she says her husband took her to her home to stay while he secured employment and provided a home for her, but that subsequently he informed her he would not live with her again and has persisted in that attitude ever since.

They were married February 4, 1921, and shortly after this marriage lived for a time with his people at their home in Union township. Later they lived in another house on the farm of her husband's parents. On July 29, 1921, she says, he took her to her home and told her to remain there until he got work and provided a home. On August 3, 1921, she says she communicated with her husband and he then told her he was not going to live with her again.

She went to his home on August 22, 1921, and tried to induce him to provide a home and live again together. He refused to do so Since that date he has not lived with her or contributed to her support. She denies she ever deserted him.

LABOR DAY SEES BIG CROWD HERE

Parade Witnessed By Many, the Streets Being Crowded —Labor Is King For the Day — the Workingman Reigns Supreme

MANY MINERS TURN OUT

Speaking Takes Place On Pennsylvania Railroad Property—Chairman W. A. Guiler Introduces the Speakers—Postmaster Hill. And Henry J. Fox

[illegible] was raining yesterday. With fair skies, and despite the heat the sons of toil converged from every locality adjacent to Charleroi and joined in the parade which marked the appearance of those who help perpetuate and ennoble this great land through the dust of labor. Labor was king for the day; predatory interests gave way to the march of those who mann our factories, mine our coal, till the soil, and work with their brain. It was the most successful Labor demonstration ever seen in this borough.

Fifth street showed to advantage with its settings of "Old Glory" installed in the Shenandoah Unit system, and both Fallowfield and McKean avenues, as well as the residence sections of the borough were decorated with flags floating and bunting in evidence. The town was thronged with people for the holiday.

The parade was formed at 10:30 o'clock in Fallowfield avenue and Second street, and contained the Monessen band and the Slavish band of Charleroi, the Bentleyville band, and the Belle Vernon Fife and Drum corps. In the line of parade which traversed the business section was the Charleroi police and members of council, Chairman William A. Guiler and the speakers in an automobile, the painters and decorators and paperhangers, 327; Moving Picture Operators, 628; the Carpenter's Union No. 1034; the Sheet Metal Workers; Charleroi local and Warner's Union miners; the Boy Scouts of Charleroi and North Charleroi—altogether approximately 2,000 in line.

Union miners were in line from not only the local mines named, but from Elizabeth, Bentleyville, and Weaver, representative of their locals.

The parade was disbanded at McKean avenue and Fifth street, where the address of welcome was made on the lawn in front of the Pennsylvania Railroad station by Postmaster S. D. R. Hill. He welcomed in fitting terms to Charleroi the knights of labor, and was in turn succeeded by Henry J. Fox of Pittsburgh, both orators being introduced by Chairman Guiler.

In the ball games during the day, Charleroi lost two contests to their formidable opponents, the Homestead Grays; the results of the boxing matches at night and particulars anent the baseball contests can be found on the sporting page—second page of this issue.

Plays Organ With Snake at Her Feet

Cottonboro, N. H.—Mrs Anna Enman, wife of the Rev. S. B. Enman, pastor of Cottonboro Methodist church, is the heroine of the town.

Mrs. Enman is the church organist. Just after she took her place at the organ during services the other night, she saw a three-foot green-and-white milk adder coiled up less than four feet away. Her first impulse was to scream, but, fearful that this would break up the service, she kept on playing while the congregation sang, and the snake, soothed by the music, looked on quietly.

Then the pastor began to preach. The snake became restless. Mrs. Enman was scared, but she stuck to her place. Then she played and the snake again was charmed. When the service was over the snake led the way out of the church and later was killed

Labor Day in the past has been conceded to be a dull one on the local river, the mines all being closed in order to allow the miners to attend the various festivities and observance of the day; but yesterday, according to observation, which was made at the local Lock No. 4, was an exceptionally busy day. A partial record shows that during the day, 14 steamers passed up and down the river, and 23 empty boats and barges, while the coal shipments aggregated 15,000 tons.

The excursion packet, Verna Belle Swane, carried a total of 350 passengers [illegible] ville and other up-river points.

This marked interest in industry, particularly, on a holiday, is a fair indication that business along the river, especially, that appertaining to local shipments, is on the upward trend, and will no doubt, increase with the advent of the fall and winter months, which will naturally increase the demand for domestic consumption.

Bricky Ryan And Frankie Porto Draw In Stellar Boxing Show Before Charleroi's Largest Crowd

Bricky Ryan and three or four hundred other residents of Ellsworth, were in Charleroi last evening. Bricky had a little argument with another youngster by the name of Franky Porto of McKeesport and his friends just came along to see that their protegee was given a square deal.

In their ten-round bout at the Charleroi Base Ball park under the auspices of the Charleroi Elks Club, neither boy could gain any advantage over the other. It was one of those scientific boxing matches where two clever fighters gave and took punch for punch and tried everything known in the boxing game to gain an advantage, but they were both so good and in such well trained condition that they put up one of the most pleasing exhibitions of the manly art that the fans all went home declaring that they had witnessed a real treat. At the end of the tenth round the judges disagreed as to the winner, Joseph Connell deciding that Porto had the most points and Jack Mier that Ryan was the best of the two. The matter was decided by Referee Martin Dietz who declared the fight a draw.

The semi-final proved to be a real thriller when Wee Willie Davies of Roscoe met Hughie Manson of Homestead in a six-round bout. These two boys have been old rivals when they were both in the amateur ranks and had many a settoo in that class, last night being their first meeting as professionals. The fight was fast and furious from the first bell. It was seen after the third round that Davies was the much better fighter of the two and from that time on he piled up many points, in fact enough for the judges to award him the decision. Young Manson showed flashes of his old-time form but was not in the same shape as when he fought Davies as an amateur. This boy has been out of the ring for several months and last night was his first real test as a professional and he is matched to meet Davies in a return match in Homestead in the near future.

The other preliminaries were both good fast bouts. Tony Tortoise of Elizabeth met Eddie Myers of McKeesport in a six-round bout in which Myers was awarded the decision and Young Rudy of Charleroi lost to Dick Davies of Roscoe in a four-round bout.

It was one of the largest crowds that has ever attended a boxing show here. The seating arrangements were of the Motor Square Garden plan and were complete in every detail. The lighting system was perfect in every way and proved to be an innovation to the fans. In fact all told it was one of the most successful boxing shows ever given in this vicinity.

It was announced that at the next show to be held here Harry Fay would appear in the main bout with the man who was given a draw with him in Ohio two weeks ago.

GRAYS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF ERRORS.

While the colored population of Charleroi and surrounding district went into ecstacies of delight, two large crowds at the Charleroi baseball park yesterday sat in gloom and showing made by the locals against the Homestead Grays. If the Grays had only one team in Pittsburg's district to play—the—Charleroi Independents, they would, in a season, capture about 90 per cent of the contests, for if there is any one club that [illegible] the surprising thing about the matter is, that while the Grays often meet reverses at the hands of teams that Charleroi defeats, when they come here they are imbued with confidence, and proceed to whale the locals without trouble. The scores in the double header yesterday, were in the morning game, Homestead Grays 9; Charleroi 2. In the afternoon, Grays 8; Charleroi 2.

In the morning contest Latriam was pitched against Wheeler. He was touched up for 13 hits, but of the nine runs made by the Grays, at least four were gifts. Three runs were tallied when a Gray player hit the ball in the grass where Anderson and Consonery were unable to find it.

In the afternoon with Beatty pitching, the fans expected better things. The Grays trotted out Brinham, an underhand pitcher, and while Charleroi got 10 hits, they were widely scattered. On the other hand, Beatty had an off day, the Grays hitting him when they had to and they were aided by some execrable throwing on the part of Beatty and the local club players. There was more or less argument and plenty of thrills. The scores:

Pirates Take Two From Cubs And Near Pennant Honors

Labor Day was celebrated at Forbes Field yesterday in a manner that not only delighted, but likewise thrilled two large congregations of baseball fans and at the same time disgusted the Chicago Cubs, who were cleaned in a double holiday games. Each fracas was broken up by the Buccaneers in a good, old fashioned garrison finish. Hazen Cuyler's well placed single ended the early affair with one out in the tenth inning, leaving the Pirates with a 5-4 victory. Glenn Wright's highly appropriate base wallop in the eighth gave the home club the bacon 4-3, in the afternoon, but Eddie Moore's home run poke just a second or two previous, was a mighty important bit of the pastime.

A grand total of 37,000 sun-fishes took advantage of the bright September weather to cheer Bill McKechnie and his flag hunters on their wild fight into the home stretch of the pennant race.

[illegible] Follette ticket by the American Federation of Labor was a marked departure from that organization's long-established policy of keeping as a body out of active politics.

Reports from different parts of the country indicate that some sections of the American Federation of Labor will decline to follow their leaders at Atlntic City and that, after all, the labor vote will be split.

WORK DONE FOR NEXT 20 YEARS

The registrar at the University of Pittsburgh has his work done for the next twenty years! Without a moment's hesitation he can tell you the number of students that will be registered in each department of the university for any year until 1943. And what is considered by the members of the faculty more marvelous still he can make accurate predictions about women. He can tell just how many women students will be in attendance at the university each year for the next two decades.

He has made up his enrollment charts for twenty years in advance. For example, the registrar's "report" for the school year 1942-43 predicts that the total registration of the university in that year will be 21,000. Of this number of students, says the registrar, 6,510 will be women. The College alone in that year will have 4,325 students, when the freshman class for the first time will exceed 2,000 students.

The report for 1922 shows that the regular full time students will then total 11,855, the evening division students 3,900, and the special and summer session students 5,245.

It was learned at the university yesterday that the predictions for the next twenty years were made a year ago by Professor John Weber, of the School of Engineering, and their accuracy was tested during the past year when the registration in the various divisions was in each case in almost exact accord with the estimates made twelve months before.

The estimates were made on the basis of curves of registration in all schools and divisions of the university. In each case a definite trend of increase was found; and if the conditions of admission and the same relative interest in different schools are maintained in the future it is felt by the university authorities that the estimates will be found to be accurate.

The only factor that might upset the predictions, it was said, is the shortage of space. In the past ten years when the attendance has more than doubled, the building facilities of the university has grown much less rapidly, and half the present space of the institution is provided in temporary buildings not of fireproof construction. Within ten years, it is estimated, three times the present space for teaching, research and administration will be required.

HATS OFF TO---HARRY GREB

By Tom Doerer

A year ago the boys gathered around and nominated Harry Greb for the pugilistic ash heap.

He's lost his punch; his legs are going; he does not keep in shape between fights," and the rest of the boxing dirge was chanted when the critics palavered.

But Harry Greb is still fighting. He's still a champion, and his legs and punch continue to carry him along.

Harry is an unusual scrapper. In one breath he is mentioned as Dempsey's opponent, another moment he is being matched for the light-heavyweight title and between gasps he crops up the middleweight titleholder.

Some day Harry's nimble legs will give way under a fusillade of blows, and finis will be written across his career.

But the spindly legs are standing up today.

Greb is the "headiest" man in the ring. He is another Jack Britton. When he is pressed Greb is at his best. The famous Greb windmill flashes occur; then the incessant tattoo of punches rain upon a bewildered rival.

Give Greb an easy opponent and he will fight an easy fight. That is why Greb looks "shot" on occasions.

But send him out to defend a title or seek one and he is the real Greb, the flashiest scrapper in the game.

Harry does not go to the scrap heap this year.

Paint Defies Fire

Lead, zinc and oil paints that will not sustain a blaze and will prevent a fire from spreading have been developed by paint chemists. Paints that actually possess these properties, fire retarding to such an extent that a small fire will burn out without serious injury to paint or property, are made in all colors. They resist sea fog, salt air and all climate influences, and cost no more than ordinary paint.

To Save Girdled Tree

A tree the bark of which has been cut all around is sure to die unless a very delicate operation is performed on it. Skillful nurserymen have found that it is possible to graft a twig, or a number of twigs, into the bark, above and below the wound, and that the sap will circulate through these twigs and carry nourishment to the tree.

Really Not His Fault

Here was son again asking for another check! Every month he spent at college was costing father more and more money. "I had no idea," father said sternly, as he reached for his checkbook, "that an education cost so much." "Oh, its terribly high, father," was the reply. "And you know I'm one of those who studies the least!"

SWEDEN CARES FOR WAYWARD CHILDREN

New Law Requires State Be Given Their Custody.

Stockholm.—Compulsory removal of wayward or depraved children from their homes into public custody, and subsequent supervision up to the age of eighteen, is provided for in a new law for the care of children which has just been passed by the riksdag.

The law further provides for public care of children who are found to be exposed to undesirable influence and in danger of becoming deprayed.

Children removed from their homes by government inspectors and matrons in compliance with this law are placed in government institutions, or in good private homes in the country, where they receive expert training and can grow up in healthful surroundings.

Social service of a similar sort has been carried on in the cities of Sweden, especially Stockholm, for many years by municipal and state boards, who place the children in desirable homes far out in the country, and pay an annual compensation to these homes. In many cases a strong bond of affection grows up between these waifs of the slums and their foster parents, which culminates in legal adoption.

Under the new law every city and parish will have a special board for the care of children, including local pastors and teachers as permanent members, while inspectors will travel all over the country for the purpose of observing and controlling individual development. Thousands of country homes receive the poor children of the city as guests during the summer and send them back to their homes with cheeks round and rosy.

Nation-wide and energetic philanthropic work also is carried on by the Swedish society "Save the Children" the campaign culminating in an annual Children's day, when large amounts are raised to provide summer vacations in children's colonies by the seaside, and in some cases on islands specially reserved.

Philippines in Quake Belt, Scientist Warns

Manila.—That Manila may at almost any time be visited by an earthquake such as destroyed Yokohama last September is the warning given by Father Roque Ruano, professor of physics and engineering in the University of Santo Tomas, who has just returned from a visit in Japan, where he studied the effect of earthquakes in that country.

"The Philippines lie in the same seismic zone as does the earthquake region of Japan, and conditions in Manila are analogous in many respects to those found in Yokohama," said Father Ruano. "The same subsoil that is found in Yokohama is found here and building construction is practically identical."

The professor recommends that a committee of geologists and scientists study the earthquake regions of the Philippines and make a report in order to impress upon the people the necessity of preparing for a severe quake at any time.

Sing Sing Has Largest Roster in Its History

New York.—Warden Lewis E. Lawes is about ready to hang the "S. R. O." sign on the Sing Sing door. With 1,447 state guests occupying these quarters, said to be the most choice of all the country's prisons, room is left for but a few more. It is the largest roster the penitentiary has had in eight years.

The crowded condition will not affect the persons now under Mr. Lawes' supervision, but it will be hard on the offenders who are sentenced to Sing Sing from now on, for the trip will be continued from the Ossining establishment to the less popular Clinton prison at Dannemora, where privileges are fewer, visitors rare and discipline comparatively severe.

One Family Owned Land in Quebec Since 1629

Quebec, Canada.—The Arts, Science and Letters society recently sent a questionnaire to the various parishes of Quebec and Montmorency, seeking information about old families. The results received were quite interesting. One family, that of Ismael Bedard, remained on the same land at Charlesbourg since 1629; the family of Hector Laliberte of St. Jean, Island of Orleans, is the largest in Montmorency county, consisting of 20 children, all living. Joseph Gagnon of St. Pierre, Island of Orleans, has the largest number of living descendants with 210. Special diplomas will be forwarded to these families by the society.

6,000 Miles to Tie Knot

San Francisco.—Anxious to keep a promise made to his son long before the boy was old enough to think seriously of marriage, the Rev. Thomas Angus Morrison of Glasgow arrived here from Scotland to officiate at the wedding of the son, Capt. Thomas Fraser Morrison, and Miss Margaret Mellersh.

600 Golf Balls in Lake

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Six hundred or more golf balls were recovered by small boys when the artificial lake on No. 4 hole at Nibley Park municipal golf links here was drained recently. The youngsters donned bathing suits.

Only 8 per cent of vehicles entering or leaving New York City on an average day are horse-drawn, but the 8 per cent amounts to 16,000 and the two-horse teams are thought to equal the one-horse in number. Plainly the horse is not yet obsolete.

Young Farmer Surely Played in Hard Luck

"A young farmer had been somewhat too much of a general lover before he settled upon one sweetheart in particular, but this time he was truly attached to his Emily. It was about a month before the wedding, on a moonless night; and as he led a white heifer past the public house the door suddenly opened and a man stumbled out into the road, a little confused in his brain by too much beer. Now, this reveler, on returning home, endeavored, like many another husband, to placate his wife by offering her a scrap of gossip—he had just seen that young So-and-So walking out with somebody in white, and it wasn't the right girl, because she was at Doncaster.

"Next morning the wife, of course, told a neighbor, and the neighbor passed it on to the mother of the prospective bride, and, though the fiance was able to explain everything, the girl thought, on the whole, she would prefer to have a young man who could lead anything home at night—plain or colored—without giving rise to talk."—From "What I Have Gathered," by J. E. Buckrose.

Lord Didn't See Much to Admire in Wordsworth

Wordsworth is held up for the delectation of future generations in the journal of the fourth Lord Holland, published in London.

His lordship was a languid young man of fashion, who employed part of his leisure in the early days of the Nineteenth century in keeping a rather dull journal into which the unlordly public is at length permitted to gaze, says the Living Age.

One paragraph, scrawled on the evening of March 18, 1802, suffices, however, to redeem the journal, for, the more important topic of food being safely disposed of, Lord Holland bestows three aristocratic sentences on Wordsworth:

"Dined at the B.'s. A very dull affair. We had, however, asperges, a rarity at this season. Lady B. informed me that these, as well as the pommes de terre, were sent direct from the estate. Over the wine talked with a young Mr. Wordsworth—a pompous, conceited kind of young man, and a poet. He belongs to the new school of ranting, canting, Germanizing vaporists. One has to meet very odd people sometimes."

The Obscure and Faithful

What we call illusions are often, in truth, a wider vision of past and present realities—a willing movement of a man's soul with the larger sweep of the world's forces—a movement toward a more assured end than the chances of a single life. We see human heroism broken into units and say this unit did little—might as well not have been. But in this way we might break up a great army into units; in this way we might break the sunlight into fragments, and think that this and the other might be cheaply parted with it. Let us, rather, raise a monument to the soldiers whose brave hearts only kept the ranks unbroken, and met death—a monument to the faithful who were not famous, and who are precious as the continuity of the sunbeams is precious, though some of them fall unseen and on barrenness.—George Eliot.

House Paint Once Banned

Linseed oil was first made in New York in 1715. Pigments were all imported. In New England there was much prejudice against the use of paint, it being considered a sign of worldliness and vanity.

In 1630 a clergyman in Charlestown, Mass., was haled before the council for having the interior of his house painted, and during the ensuing 40 years there was not a painter in all New England. Still, by 1759 the use of paint had become general throughout the country, the white house with green blinds for many years being the common form of exterior painting in all parts of the United States. This manner of painting frame houses is today enjoying popularity. In fact, in some quarters this color scheme is criticised as lacking individuality.

Scored on the Orator

The atmosphere was getting slightly heated in the village hall, where the candidate for office was addressing a meeting of those who he hoped would vote for him at the next election.

One man in the crowd was determined not to give the aspirant a moment's peace, and he didn't. At last the speaker lost his last remnant of patience and, shaking his fist at the heckler, he shouted:

"I look upon you, sir as a confounded rascal."

"Quite," replied the interrupter, with a sweet smile. "You are perfectly at liberty to look upon me in any character you desire to assume."

Not in Dictionary

In the good old days when science was still in its infancy, which was not so long ago, scientists were firmly convinced that the various atoms of a given element were absolutely identical with each other and quite immune from any transformation whatever. The very name, from the Greek, means indivisible. This view has recently been shattered by the investigations and developments of radio activity. The isotope has taken its place as the smallest particle. The word is not in the dictionary yet. It is of Greek origin and signifies "that which is in the place of."—Chicago Journal.

According to the Boston Herald, Maine is no longer an election barometer state, which presumably means that Maine is liable to stray from the regular track in November.

FIRST FLOATING FAIR SENT OUT BY GERMANY

Pilgrimage to Ports of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Hamburg, Germany.—The first German floating fair will leave Hamburg July 30 on a voyage which will occupy ten months and take the fairship, "Industria I," as far east as Yokohama.

The ship is to give testimony to postwar German enterprise, and is to carry the "Made in Germany" label to distant points of Europe, and to Asia and Africa. If the experiment proves successful a second ship is to be outfitted for a trip to North and South America.

There will be room for 750 exhibitors on this floating fair ground, and in addition to a printing shop, banking facilities, stenographic rooms, post and telegraph, film and magic lantern service and a news bureau. The film service is to show German places of interest, especially industrial towns and industrial processes.

It is planned that the floating fair shall stop from three to eight days in every harbor visited. The route is as follows: Helsingfors, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Southampton, Lisbon, Malaga, Barcelona, Palermo, Naples, Piraeus, Constantinople, Smyrna, Jaffa, Alexandria, Port Said, Karachi, Bombay, Colombo, Madras, Calcutta, Rangoon, Penang, Delhi, Singapore, Batavia, Soerayabaya, Macassar, Bangkok, Manila, Canton, Shanghai, Tsingtau, Kobe, Vladivostok, Osaka and Yokohama.

Hungry Jellyfish Drive Herring From North Sea

Bremerhaven.—European ichthyologists have become greatly exercised by the diminished numbers of haddock and herring in the North sea, from which various other countries obtain their principal fish supplies.

Several conferences have been held by those interested in the fish industry to consider what steps may be taken to remedy the situation. The herring began to disappear three years ago, and the haddock some months later.

Fish experts attribute the diminished numbers to incredibly large schools of jellyfish and various forms of sea nettle which were swept in from the Atlantic ocean in 1920, when several changes were reported in the different Atlantic currents.

The jellyfish came in a flood of warm water and made themselves at home at once, consuming the food of the herring in such great amounts that the herring were unable to subsist. When they began to disappear the haddock, too, began gradually to diminish, as it is upon the eggs of the herring that the haddock exists during a great part of the year.

Wild Oats

WHEN Dan took Evelyn in his arms and told her that he loved her she believed him.

In her ignorance of life she had no way of knowing he was not in earnest.

If she had known she was only one of many girls into whose ears he had poured the same sweet sounding words, what a world of shame and degradation she would have been spared.

"His False Standard"—in True Story

Magazine for October is a story of the sowing of wild oats—and the reaping of a crop of agony. If every man and woman could see the broken hearts and ruined hopes, the days and nights of remorse and tears that follow wrong-doing—no young man would trifle with a woman's love and no girl would give her heart to any man until she had made sure that his intentions were honorable.

Don't fail to read this thrilling lesson from life.

"During those awful days of suspense both as to Evelyn's faith and mine, I passed through hell-fires of suffering . . . and I learned that I loved Evelyn, loved her as a man loves sunshine, and woods, and rivers, and all natural, wholesome things."
—from "His False Standard" in True Story for October

Other Absorbing Stories from Life

"You Belong to Me"—When Avery Holson bullied her into a loveless marriage, Alice was afraid to withdraw from an alliance that was loathsome to her. Had she been properly taught from her childhood days, what agony of mind and soul she might have escaped!

The Gage of Battle

In this country a mighty conflict is raging. Evil is battling to destroy all that is virtuous and good.

The weapons of Evil are deceit, treachery, cunning. It slinks in the shadows and attacks in the dark. Against such a foe, moralizing avails little. The fight calls for action—determined, fearless. True Story Magazine, as published by Bernarr Macfadden represents that kind of action.

True Story needs but one weapon—the sword of truth. If it can save others the tragedy of evil: if it can show young people the perils and penalties of wrong—it will have gone far in its battle for Right.

FISHERMEN GONE ASTRAY.

Prohibitionists from conviction naturally do not like to hear it said that their strongest backers are the bootleggers, but there is every reason why the last named should rejoice in a rock-ribbed Volstead law and strenuously oppose any modification of its provisions. For prohibition has furnished them an enormously profitable trade, which is doubtless all the more attractive because of the incidental excitement and risk. According to report the profits of rum running have tempted upper as well as lower class Britishers to engage in [illegible] as well as successful being a well-known baronet. On this side of the Atlantic the profits of bootlegging are not only causing many varieties of crooks to change their "line" but seems to be drawing recruits from even the ronest trades.

Recently the clerk of the Brooklyn County Court, explained the marked decrease of burglaries in his city on the ground that "stick-up" men have gone into bootlegging as both more profitable and less risky, the convicted bootlegger usually getting only about 30 days and the burglar being likely to get as much as 20 years. And now, in explanation of the high price and scarcity of the better varieties of fish in the urban markets of the North Atlantic states, a dealer is quoted as saying to a complaining housewife, "It is because all the fishermen have turned to bootlegging. We can't get much except halibut and cod, and that makes bluefish, sea bass and the like scarce and expensive." Of course the marketman's "all" was extravagant, but it would be quite reasonable to assume that many deep-sea fishermen have changed their occupation to one much more profitable and little more risky even if the reports from "Rum Row" did not so state.

LAMENTING "MRS. GRUNDY."

Time was when to mention "Mrs. Grundy" was to call her names, for she was widely regarded as a lady with too keen a scent for scandal and too sharp a tongue, only social position differentiating her from the ordinary gossiping busybody. A mention of her in the pulpit could only have been critical, yet now we have the news that Rev. Dr. Bell recently preached a sermon in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, in the course of which he "lamented that no longer is the celebrated Mrs Grundy exercising her beneficent task of watching other folk and noting and condemning their departures from what she thinks the paths of virtue and propriety." Dr. Bell contended that "she speaks no more and that nowadays almost anybody could do almost anything without incurring the adverse criticism of public opinion's famous personification."

This not only makes of Mrs. Grundy a more impeccable and useful lady than many had supposed her to be but stimulates curiosity as to why she has retired from business. Is the magnitude of her task in these times beyond her strength, or is it that questionable goings-on have become too common any longer to excite her interest? This may be to some extent true of the great towns, but it is likely Rev. Dr. Bell would find in the smaller places Mrs. Grundy is as actively interested and as vocal as ever although the acknowledged changes since the war" may have forced her to become a bit more tolerant and philosophically resigned than she was known to be in former times.

The murder of Mrs. Evans in Mexico may have been due to money-seeking bandits, as claimed, but the affair is complicated by the fact that her etate has long been besieged owing to conflict as to the real ownership of her property, a subject of acrimonious controversy between the Mexican and British governments which resulted in the breaking off of diplomatic relations by Great Britain. The United States is more or less concerned not merely through the Monroe doctrine or its modern interpretation but because British interests have been placed in the hands of the American embassy at the Mexican capital.

The Home Town Coolidge Club of Plymouth, Vt., is quoted as saying that "we are trying to prove to the farmers throughout the land that President Coolidge is a real dirt farmer, as were his father and grandfather before him." But he is not and never has been one since he was a boy, and anyhow, what would be the real advantage in so classifying him even if it could be done without doing violence to the facts?

[illegible] York University predicts the coming of "a laughterless age," a "sombre and scientific period when the jokes and conundrums of the present day will be preserved as curiosities in the dusty domes of museums," because "men no longer laugh at the things they used to. [illegible] true of some tired old men but it is not true of the young. We may rest assured that youth, however learned, will be gay and laughter-loving as long as the race is found on the planet.

Two bills which virtually repeal the present prohibition act have been introduced in the New Foundland parliament, and, with even Ontario consenting to a referendum, following the loss to prohibition of the great western provinces, it looks as if all Canada is to become "wet" or "moist" at the very least.

Major MacLaren, the British round-the-world flier, is none the less a gallant and plucky aviator because irreparable damage to his machine in Siberia has forced him to abandon an undertaking which should have but failed to receive government support.

Plants Supply Enough Light to Take Photographs

By stimulating certain kinds of plants with an intense beam of light, Prof. Francis E. Lloyd, of McGill university, has devised a method for taking color photographs of them by the rays which they emit. In the experiment, the plants glowed with brilliant red, orange, and yellow lights and details of their structure which could not be observed under the microscope, were revealed. The pigments, which are believed to be the source of the luminous glow, are thought to play an important part in the growth of the cells.

Camera to Detect Forgery Snaps Face and Name

Simultaneously photographing the depositor and his signature, a double camera arrangement has been perfected by an eastern inventor for use in banks and business houses to detect forgeries. Upon a special plate the machine at one "snap" registers a picture of the person and of his handwriting, which is affixed to a blank and kept with the photograph for reference in case dispute later arises as to the depositor's identity or his signature.

Giant Saxophone Is So Large Player Stands on Ladder

Weighing 500 pounds and modeled accurately after smaller instruments, a huge saxophone was displayed not long ago in California. Securely bracketed to the outside of the manufacturer's shop, the giant instrument formed an impressive advertising display, and to emphasize its tremendous proportions, a young woman who attempted to play it was compelled to mount a ladder to reach the mouthpiece.

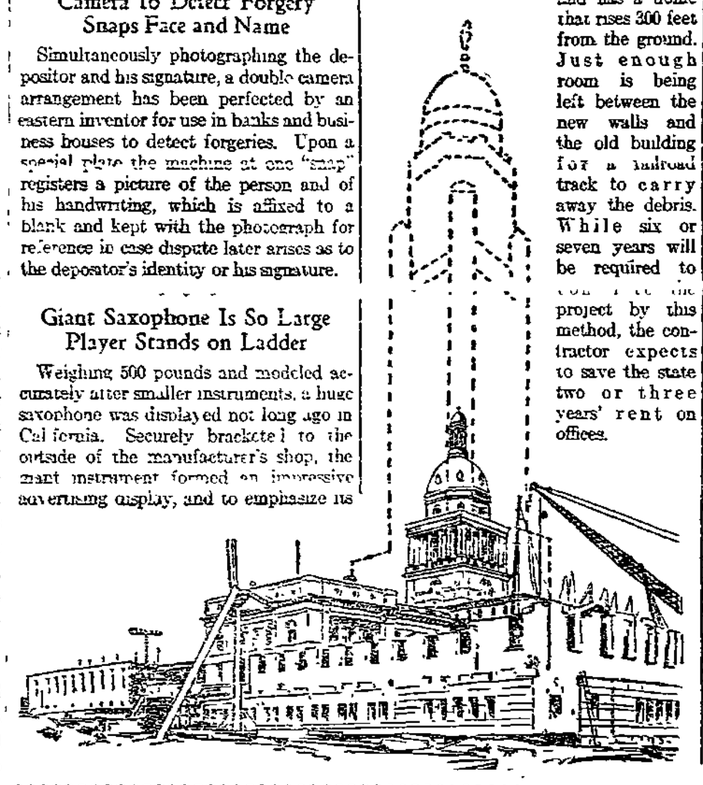
New Capitol Built over Old Saves Rent for State Offices

Replacing the old Nebraska state capitol with a $5,000,000 structure on the same site, while government work goes on unhampered in the present one, is a feat being accomplished at Lincoln. When the new building is near completion, the old one inside will be torn down. The wrecking promises to be an interesting engineering operation, as the present capitol is built entirely of stone and has a dome that rises 300 feet from the ground. Just enough room is being left between the new walls and the old building for a railroad track to carry away the debris. While six or seven years will be required to complete the project by this method, the contractor expects to save the state two or three years' rent on offices.



A Simple Camp Grate

A simple and convenient camp grate that does not take up much room and can easily be made by anyone, is shown in the drawing. It is made from a number of 18-in. lengths of ¼-in flat iron, about 1 in. wide. These lengths are pivoted together at the ends as shown in the upper detail, which arrangement permits them to be folded compactly, or drawn out for use. The fire is made between two rows of rocks as flat as can be found and of fairly equal height, as shown, and the grate placed on top of them. When not in use, the grate is folded up and put in a canvas pocket made to hold it.

Cranking a "Stiff" Car

After repairing a car by fitting some new bearings and taking up the old ones it was found impossible to crank the engine, and a heavy snow prevented towing the car. However, the following scheme proved effective: Another auto was run up alongside it so that the two adjacent rear wheels of both cars were in line and could be lashed together with a rope. The axles of both cars were, of course, jacked up to keep the wheels in alinement and prevent the cars from moving. The second car was then started and both cars thrown into high gear with the result that the first one was quickly started.

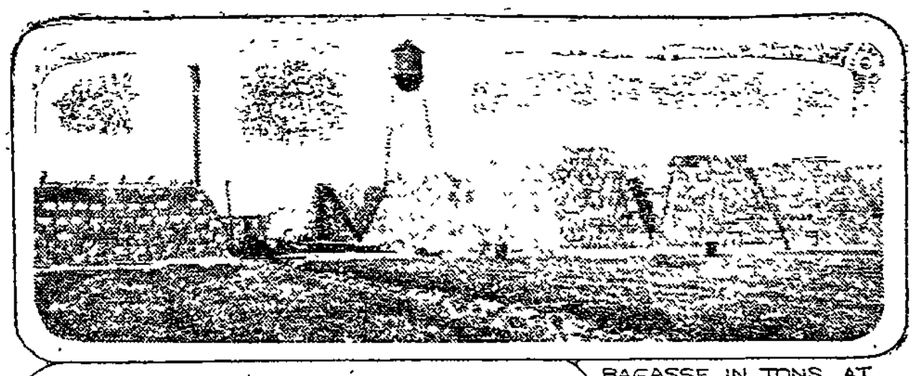
SYNTHETIC LUMBER TO SOLVE AUSTRALIA'S HOUSING PROBLEM



CUTTING CANE

BAGASSE IN TONS AT CELOTEX FACTORY

DAHLBERG
and RT. HON. W. M. HUGHES
FORMER PREMIER OF AUSTRALIA

CHICAGO—Synthetic lumber, an American discovery, is to solve Australia's housing problem, according to the Rt. Hon. W. M. Hughes, former premier of the Australian government who has been in the United States for four months to interest Yankee capital in industrial enterprises in the Antipodes.

While in Chicago, Mr. Hughes closed a deal with B. G. Dahlberg, president of the Celotex Company by which a $2,000,000 plant for the manufacture of lumber from bagasse, the waste fibre of sugar-cane, will be established at Bowen, in Queensland, a tropical province in north Australia where sugar-cane is grown in immense quantities.

"We grow no soft timber in Australia," said Mr. Hughes. "We have to import all our lumber for building purposes. Lumber prices are high due to heavy ocean transportation costs. Poor men are unable to build homes. Building is so expensive, rents are extremely high. The high cost of living has had a bad effect on immigration.

Australia produces as much sugar-cane as Louisiana. There is enough crushed fibre now burned as useless to supply the country with practically all the building lumber it requires. Australia has only 6,000,000 people. It is a white man's country and owing to immigration restrictions, its population is growing slowly. Consequently its building requirements are comparatively small.

"I regard synthetic lumber as one of the greatest discoveries in the world's history. It will rank in time among the greatest benefits to mankind. It is primarily the poor man's lumber. It means homes for the people. It weighs only one-fourth as much as pine, which reduces shipping costs. It is as good an insulator as cork which insures cool homes in summer and warm homes in winter and materially cuts down fuel costs. It is a sound-deadener which is vital to health in this age of nerves and noise."
